ABSTRACT

This annotated bibliography of government publications is based on information from the Monthly Catalog of United States Government Publications, the Selective List of Government Publications, and the publications lists of individual agencies. All items were printed in 1977 or 1978, and reflect subjects of special interest to black Americans. The bibliography does not include (1) Census Bureau publications except those which deal specifically with the black population; (2) House or Senate hearings except those which dealt in depth with an area of interest such as busing; (3) reprints of articles originally published in the U.S. Government serials or periodicals indexed in one of the standard sources; (4) ERIC documents; or (5) publications sold by the National Technical Information Services which were available only on microfilm or microfiche. Annotations include price and ordering information. There are approximately 150 entries. (Author/JCD)

INTRODUCTION

This bibliography is based upon the A.L.A. Glossary of Library Terms definition of a government publication.

"Printed or processed paper, book, periodical, pamphlet, or map, originating in, or printed with the imprint of, or at the expense of/and by the authority of, any office. . . (the United States Government)."

Materials included in this bibliography were selected using the following criteria:

Applicability to topic - Each item contains a substantial amount of information concerning Black Americans or concerning subjects of special interest to them. Each item was examined before inclusion, except a few, marked by a dagger (†), which seemed by their titles to be important but which were not received in time for publication and which would have been excluded from the next issue because of their publication date.

Date - All items were published (or printed) in 1977 or 1978 and were received by the compiler between January 1, 1978, and December 31, 1978. No individual items are included which appeared in previous issues of this bibliography.

Materials excluded from this bibliography were as follows:

Census Bureau publications except those which dealt specifically with the Black population.

House and Senate hearings except those which dealt in depth with an area of special interest, e.g. busing.

Reprints of articles originally published in United States Government serials or periodicals indexed in one of the standard sources.

ERIC documents.

Publications sold by the National Technical Information Services which were available only on microfilm or microfiche.

The sources used for locating these materials were the Monthly Catalog of United States Government Publications, the Selective List of Government Publications, and the publications lists of individual agencies.

This bibliography is published to serve primarily as an identification guide. No determination has been made as to whether or not the materials were in print as of the publication date. The Government Printing Office or the issuing agency should be contacted. Materials may be available in depository libraries.

This bibliography is prepared primarily to aid our own community in obtaining valuable free or relatively inexpensive material from the world's largest publisher. Copies of previous issues have been distributed to all the states and to several foreign countries. We hope this bibliography will be of assistance not only to individuals but also to libraries, schools, etc.

The compiler wishes to acknowledge the efforts of the following individuals who prepared the majority of the annotations: Barbara Bray, Martha Ivsky, Nancy Johanson, Adele Jones, Harold Lind, and Margaret Woods.

HOW TO ORDER PUBLICATIONS

Those publications marked with an asterisk () are available from the Superintendent of Documents, U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C., 20402. In ordering a publication from the G.P.O., give the title and the stock number, e.g. S/N 023-000-00389-9 which is provided under the entry at the extreme left. If the stock number is not provided, order by the title and classification number, e.g. C3.186:P-28/1546 which is provided under the entry at the extreme right. In ordering Congressional documents and reports marked with an asterisk (), give the title together with the document or report number and the Congress, e.g. 94-1:H.doc.1.

Remittances for documents marked with an asterisk (*) should be made to the Superintendent of Documents, U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C., 20402, by check or money order. Publications cannot be mailed in advance of receipt of remittance. Foreign remittance should be made by International Postal Money Order, by draft on a United States or Canadian bank, or by UNESCO Coupons. All remittances should be made payable to the Superintendent of Documents. ORDERS RECEIVED WITH POSTAGE STAMPS, INTERNATIONAL RESPONSE COUPONS, OR FOREIGN MONEY WILL BE RETURNED. All orders must be in English.

No charge is made for postage on documents forwarded to points in the United States and its possessions. All orders mailed to other countries have a special handling charge which is 25% of the total cost of the order.

Publications may also be purchased in person at the Main Bookstore, Government Printing Office, 710 N. Capitol Street, Washington, D. C., 20402. The hours are 8:00 a.m. - 4:00 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Those publications marked gratis are available, in most cases, from the issuing offices. In requesting a document from the issuing office, include full bibliographic information as given in this bibliography. Congressional publications not sold by the G.P.O. can be obtained from the responsible committee or from the House or Senate Documents Room.

D301.2:In8/2/945-64

In April 1945 over 100 Black officers protested segregated facilities and discriminatory policies at Freeman Field, Indiana, and were subsequently arrested for mutiny by their white commanders. This little known but significant event was the pivotal point in the history of changing racial policies in the U. S. Army Air Force and its successor, the U. S. Air Force. This study is a documentary account of the evolutionary development away from segregation and towards equal opportunity and includes extensive statistical information as well as copies of pertinent military documents.

Racial equity in selection in Air Force officer training school and undergraduate flying training: final report for period November 1974-February 1977; by John J. Matthews. (Air Force Human Resources Laboratory.) (Air Force Human Resources technical report; 77-22) 1977. 23p. il. gratis

D301.45/27:77-22

In order to determine the extent to which racial bias is present in various officer selection and classification procedures, this study compares grades of whites and non-whites on the Air Force Officer Qualifying Test with performance in various Air Force training programs and with officer effectiveness reports.

Race education/training. (Walter Reed Army Medical Center.) (1977.) 130p. gratis

D104.2:R11/976

Held in Washington, D. C., on September 15 - 17, 1976, the symposium's purpose was to discuss and develop a state of the art document on race education/training. The first part of the report contains a state of the art paper by John Coffey and a revised issues and dilemmas focal paper by Dr. Mark Chesler. The second part contains the edited verbatim proceedings of the symposium. Study and comparison of the two parts is necessary to get the feel as well as the thrust of the participants' experiences and concerns.

CIVIL RIGHTS COMMISSION

Washington, DC 20425

Affirmative action in employment in higher education: a consultation sponsored by the United States Commission on Civil Rights, Washington, D. C., September 9 - 10, 1975; prepared by Frederick B. Routh and Everett A. Waldo. (1977?) 239p. gratis

CR1.2:Em7/9

Although the Civil Rights Commission recognizes that there are really two major aspects to the subject of affirmative action in higher education: (1) policy and practice relating to student recruitment, admissions, and scholarship grants and (2) faculty recruitment, promotion, and tenure policy and practice, the Commission chose to deal only with the latter in their consultation meetings held in 1975. The scholars and other authorities who were invited to participate held differing views on the subject and it is the hope of the Commission that those who read the proceedings of the meetings will develop a better understanding of the issues involved.

Affirmative action in Salt Lake's criminal justice agencies: a report prepared by the Utah Advisory Committee. 1978. 31p. il. gratis

CR1.2:C86/3

In its examination of unequal employment of women and minorities, the Committee examines and evaluates the affirmative action efforts of the Salt Lake City police department and courts and the Salt Lake County sheriff's department, attorney's office and court services department.

Affirmative action or inaction?: The pursuit of equal employment opportunity in Cleveland: a report prepared by the Ohio Advisory Committee. 1977. (1978.) 77p. gratis

Examining employment practices affecting minorities and women in the Cleveland metropolitan area and focusing on employment within city government, this investigation uncovered a history of discrimination which, it is felt, can not be corrected totally by Cleveland's affirmative action plan. The committee concludes that although the city does not have control over all the factors affecting employment opportunities in the metropolitan area, it does have the authority to improve the situation within the city.

Civil Rights Digest. (Quarterly.) il. gratis

CR1.12:(v.nos.&nos.)

Published as part of the Commission's clearinghouse responsibility, this serial provides a forum for the discussion of civil rights issues and often presents controversial ideas and debates.

Civil Rights Update. (Monthly.) (4)p. gratis

The newsletter is published as part of the Commission's clearinghouse responsibilities and carries news briefs on court cases, Federal and state laws, and legislative actions dealing with all aspects of civil rights.

The Federal civil rights enforcement effort-- 1977: to eliminate discrimination: a sequel. 1977. 335p. il. gratis

CR1.2:En2/2/977

To be used in conjunction with volume V of The Federal Civil Rights Enforcement Effort published in 1975, this evaluates the Civil Service Commission's execution of its responsibilities for Federal equal employment opportunity, the Department of Labor's enforcement of both the Equal Pay Act and Executive Order No. 11246 as amended, the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission's implementation of Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, and the activities of the Equal Employment Opportunity Coordinating Council. Also analyzed are the efforts of the Employment Section, Civil Rights Division of the Department of Justice.

Hearing before the United States Commission on Civil Rights: hearing held in Boston, Massachusetts, June 16 - 20, 1975. 1978. 740p. gratis

CR1.8:B65

In order to examine the program and plans for the desegregation of Boston's schools, the Commission investigated the developments surrounding the implementation of Phase I as ordered by the Federal district court in 1974 and the plans for the implementation of Phase II as ordered by the same court in June 1975.

The quest for equal employment opportunity in Oklahoma state government: a report prepared by the Oklahoma Advisory Committee. 1978. 77p. gratis

In addition to summarizing a hearing held on the employment of minorities and women in state government and on the impact of the Oklahoma Merit System, this report provides the findings of extensive field investigations. It examines the composition of the state's work force and the merit system and its problems, outlines and evaluates the state's affirmative action and equal employment opportunity efforts, and defines the overall direction being taken by state officials.

Recent developments, new opportunities in civil rights and women's rights: a report of the proceedings of the Western Regional Civil Rights and Women's Rights Conference IV, sponsored by the United States Commission on Civil Rights in San Francisco, California, June 29 - July 1, 1977. 1978. 178p. $3.00*

School desegregation in Providence, Rhode Island; a staff report. 1977. 28p. gratis

CR1.2:D45/29

School desegregation in Tempe, Arizona; a staff report. 1977. 18p. il. gratis

(no S.D. number)

In August 1976, the United States Commission on Civil Rights released the report, Fulfilling the Letter and Spirit of the Law: Desegregation of the Nation's Public Schools. In compliance with the public demand for more information, a monograph has been prepared for each case study. Each monograph follows a general format providing background, plan preparation, implementation, conclusions, appendices, and tables for each municipality studied.

Social indicators of equality for minorities and women: a report. 1978. 136p. il. $3.25*
S/N 005-000-00172-2

CR1.2:SO1/2

Based on measurements of the social indicators-education, occupation, employment, income, poverty, and housing, this report directly compares the level of equality of the minority and female population to that of the majority male population. The findings show that women and minority men are behind majority men and, in some instances, are further behind in 1976 than they were in 1960.

State government affirmative action in mid-America: a report prepared by the Iowa, Kansas, Missouri, and Nebraska Advisory Committees. 1978. 107p. il. $3.00*

S/N 005-000-00166-8

CR1.2:Af2/2

Using data on current employment patterns of all state agencies and interviews with state employees, representatives of interested community groups, and state legislators, the Committees examine and evaluate the affirmative action efforts in their respective states.

The state of civil rights: 1978: a report. 1978 36p. gratis

S/N 005-000-00163-3

CR1.2:C49/5/977

Second in a series of annual reports, this reviews executive, legislative, and judicial actions, and other developments, favorable and unfavorable, which the Commission considers critical to the national goals of eliminating discrimination and advancing equal opportunity in employment, education, housing, women's rights, the administration of justice, and political participation. The reorganization of Federal agencies and offices involved in civil rights is also discussed.

Toward equal educational opportunity: affirmative admissions programs at law and medical schools. (Clearinghouse publication, no. 55) 1978. 119p. gratis

CR1.10:55

Because of the current issue of "reverse discrimination" and because of its interest in remedying discrimination in higher education, the Commission produced this monograph in an effort to contribute to a better understanding of the nature and role of affirmative admissions programs in law and medical schools. It reviews the problems that gave rise to the need for affirmative admission programs and examines the roles and effects of such programs in comparison to the traditional ones.

Congressional hiring is specifically exempted from the discrimination provisions of the 1964 Civil Rights Act. The extent of discrimination which has resulted is succinctly spelled out in an article by Andrew Alexander, "Discrimination in Hiring and Pay Starts at the Top...on Capitol Hill," which is reproduced in the record of these hearings. Committee members and witnesses discuss possible mechanisms for changing the Senate's employment discrimination record. In addition to the testimony, statements, letters, copies of pertinent articles, etc. are also included.

Designed for organizations as a guide to hiring minorities and women for professional, technical, and managerial positions which they have not traditionally held, this handbook includes all of the steps involved in planning, recruiting, hiring, funding, etc. Also provided are appendices on such topics as aids to job development, job and career counseling resources, and suggestions on resume preparation.

Years for decision: a longitudinal study of the educational and labor market experience of young women, v.4. (R & D monograph; 24) 1978. 324p. il. $5.00*
S/N 029-000-00314-9

L37.14:24/v.4

Based on the National Longitudinal Survey of more than 5,000 women aged 14 to 24 when first interviewed in 1968, this report describes the changes in the attitudes of women toward working outside the home and in their actual participation in the labor force. The information can aid counselors, persons in training positions, and others concerned with helping young women in the planning of their careers. Statistics are given by race.

Groups with historically high incidences of unemployment: a report to the Congress required by section 4(d) (3) of the Fair Labor Standards Act. 1977. 50p. il. gratis

L36.12:977

A 1974 amendment to the Fair Labor Standards Act requires studies to be done on aspects of the Act which relate to selected labor force groups in order to explore methods to prevent the curtailment of employment opportunities for those groups which have had historically high unemployment rates. This study identifies those groups - members of minority/ethnic groups, females, veterans, teenagers, and 20-24 year-olds and provides in statistical format their unemployment history.

Black experience versus Black expectations: a case for fair-share employment; by Melvin Humphrey. (Office of Planning, Research and Systems.) (Research report; no.53) 1977. 94p. il. gratis

Y3.Eq2:11/53

Based on the EEO-1 Employer Information Reports filed with the EEOC, this study serves four purposes. First, it measures the penetration and occupational position of Blacks in the EEO-1 sphere of employment since 1969. Second, it estimates Black employment gaps that exist when Black experience is measured against Black expectations. Third, it calculates the economic loss to Black workers which is associated with employment discrimination. Fourth, it projects the time when employment gaps will close.

Employment opportunity in the schools: job patterns of minorities and women in public elementary and secondary schools, 1975; prepared by Winston Robertson. (Office of Planning, Research and Systems.) 1977. 244p. il. $4.00*

Based on the EEOC's survey and sampling of approximately 7,300 school districts, this report provides statistical data on the employment and job patterns of women and minorities in public schools. Included are a United States summary, a United States summary by enrollment size, and a trend analysis for the United States. The main conclusions drawn from the data are that minorities and women are still employed in greater proportions in the lower paying, lower prestige occupations than their white and male counterparts and that only a small number have reached the policy-making levels.

Since 1966 the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission has collected information from private employers about the race/ethnic group and sex characteristics of their employees. As published, these data are an important annual resource to governmental agencies at the Federal, state, and local level, as well as to nongovernmental organizations and private researchers concerned with equal employment opportunity. Volume one contains a table giving statistics on occupational employment in private industry by race/ethnic group and sex and by industry in the United States for 1975. In volume two these statistics are broken down by SMSA's.

Under Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, private employers having more than 100 employees and fulfilling certain other criteria are required to file the "Employer Information Report, EEO-1," which records employment statistics by sex for each of nine major occupational categories and by each of four minority groups - Blacks, Hispanics, Asian Americans, and American Indians. In narrative and in tables, this report summarizes the 1975 data by the occupational categories, by type of industry or service, and by size of establishment. Appendices include the instruction booklet and a copy of the EEO-1 report form.

Y3.Eq2:11/52-1 to 52-6

How many Blacks are employed in state and local government? In what job classification? How does their median salary compare to that of whites and other minority groups? Data on employment, salary, and occupational status, tabulated by sex and race, are presented in this six-volume set. Figures are available for state, county, municipal, and township governments as well as for special districts such as school and fire. Reporting units are not, however, identified by name. All data are aggregated into national summary figures.

Minority and female membership in referral unions, 1974; prepared by Vera A. Libeau. (Office of Planning, Research and Systems.) (Research report; no.55) 1977. 108p. il. $2.50*

Through the operation of a hiring hall or through other means, a referral union refers workers to employers who recruit through it. Employment usually lasts only for the duration of a particular job. Based on statistics collected in the 1974 annual union survey of 2,907 locals, this report concludes that minorities still remain concentrated in the non-building trades and in the lower paid trades in construction. The international unions involved which include sixteen building and twenty-seven non-building trade unions are listed in the appendix.

Department of Defense program to help minority-run businesses get subcontracts not working well: report of the Comptroller General of the United States. 1977. 28p. gratis

GA1.13:PSAD-77-76

The program calls for some contracts amounting to $500,000 or more to have a clause stipulating that contractors identify and solicit minority businesses to do subcontracting. This study found that inadequate contract requirements coupled with programs poorly planned and carried out by the four prime contractors were the main reasons why the subcontracting program was not as effective as it could be.

Socio-political impact of sickle cell disease; by Lawrence E. Gary and Betty J. Penn. Research supported by a grant from the National Institutes of Health. Mental Health Research and Development Center, Institute for Urban Affairs and Research, Howard University, Washington, D.C., 20059. 1977. 197p. il. $2.00

In order to examine the social and political issues and problems related to the passage and implementation of the National Sickle Cell Anemia Control Act of 1972, Congressional hearings and other government publications were analyzed, key executives of the National Institutes of Health were interviewed, and a survey was conducted of 367 private and public organizations in Federal District III. The results indicate that the delivery system for prevention and control is without clear direction and feedback and that an important need is to re-examine the present national policy because it restricts the definition of disease control and narrows the scope of control efforts.
